

INSURANCE MEN ORGANIZE HERE

Underwriters Effect Local Society Which Will Become Part of Indiana Organization.

CONFORM TO RATE SCHEDULE

Policies Written Here Will be Sent to Stamp Bureau at Indianapolis for Approval.

Practically all the local fire insurance representatives met at the office of Harry M. Miller this morning and organized the Seymour Insurance Society which will become affiliated with the Indiana Insurance Society. Representatives of five companies were present at the conference.

The purpose of the meeting was to effect an organization among agents to conform to the rates which are established by E. M. Sellers, an expert. The affiliated companies, it is understood, are favorable to the proposed organization as they believe that it will place the business on a sounder competitive basis.

Under the system which was adopted all policies written must be approved by the "stamp bureau" at Indianapolis before they are forwarded to the home offices of the company. This bureau will compare the rates which have been agreed to those specified in the policy and if they agree the policy will be approved. Without the approval of the stamp bureau the policy will be returned to the agent.

The local society will meet each month. The officers elected today were:

W. H. Burkley—President.
John Congdon—Vice President.
Harry Findley—Secretary.

During the meeting the local representatives filed applications for membership to the state organization.

The constitution of the Indiana Insurance Society, of which the newly organized local society is a member, provides:

"The encouragement by joint endeavor of the elimination of fire hazards; the encouragement of systems of approved inspections of property and the curtailment of fire loss thereon; for co-operation with the state fire marshal, municipal and other authorities, or kindred associations and individuals for the promotion of ordinance improvement in fire protection; and such other helpful objects as will promote the best interests of the public, the property owner and the underwriter; for the encouragement and friendly aid to the property owners and agents of Indiana, to the end that fire underwriting may be maintained on a proper and dignified plane under approved and lawful methods and for the encouragement of correct practices in underwriting, the economical conduct of the business, the dissemination of information among its members and the public and the promotion of harmony and fraternity."

Several years ago this system was attempted but met opposition from the attorney-general. Recently the objections made at that time have been overcome and similar organizations are being effected in all parts of the state. This afternoon a number of the local agents went to Crothersville with the special representatives where another Society was organized.

WAYNE BRODHECKER DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART TROUBLE

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brodhecker, of Brownstown, Passes Away at Lafayette.

Wayne Brodhecker, aged twenty years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brodhecker, of Brownstown, died suddenly of valvular heart trouble, Monday afternoon at Lafayette, where he was employed as a chauffeur. The announcement of his death came unexpectedly as it was not generally known that he was in a serious condition. Late Monday his parents received a telegram that he was not expected to live and while they were preparing to leave, a second message came announcing the sad news.

Young Brodhecker had been in frail health for some time but recently went to Lafayette where he secured employment. He had a natural bent for mechanical labor and from boyhood found enjoyment working with machinery. He was born at Brownstown and was educated in the schools there. He is survived by his parents, two brothers, Clyde and Frank, of Brownstown, and two sisters, Mrs. George Capoot and Miss Cora Brodhecker, of Allendale, Ill.

The remains were shipped from Lafayette to Brownstown, arriving there early today. The funeral will occur Thursday afternoon. The deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church.

LOSS FROM WOODLAND FIRE IN JENNINGS COUNTY SMALL

Trees on Irwin Farm Are Scorched and About One-half Mile of Fences Are Consumed.

Dr. A. B. Irwin, one of the three landowners in Jennings county who suffered a loss Sunday night when a tract of woodland and several fields were swept by fire, told the Republican today that the loss would not be as large as first expected as the neighbors had worked hard in getting the flames under control. The fire was prevented from reaching a large pile of lumber on his farm. He said that some of the timber in the woods on his farm was scorched by the burning underbrush and that in all about one-half a mile of fences had been consumed.

The fire spread to the farms of James Douglass and John C. Trembly, the latter a traveling salesman of Columbus. Their loss, according to reports today is not large. It is not known how the fire started. For a time the flames threatened to do considerable damage and the farmers responded to the call for assistance and succeeded in getting them under control.

GOOD CROWD WILL ATTEND BANQUET

Fully One Hundred Twenty-five Are Expected to Turn Out for Commercial Club Meeting.

SPEAKER NOT YET SECURED

If You Have Not Secured Your Ticket See The Committee and Make Arrangements at Once.

That the Commercial Club banquet Friday evening will be one of the best attended and most enthusiastic gatherings in the history of the organization is already assured. At the meeting last night of the committees in charge of arrangements, the ticket committee reported that the sales had already passed the one hundred mark, and arrangements will be made to seat one hundred and twenty-five at the tables.

The committee has made an effort to see every member, but as the time has been limited some may have been missed and they are requested to make application either to the secretary, to any member of the ticket committee, or at the newspaper offices. It is the wish of those in charge that every business and professional man in Seymour who is interested in the welfare and upbuilding of the city, attend the meeting Friday evening.

The banquet arrangements have been placed in the hands of Mr. Albert Ahlbrand of the Ahlbrand Carriage Co., and he has secured the Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran church to serve the dinner. There will be music, readings and other special entertainment during the evening. The speaker of the evening is still an uncertain proposition. Efforts were being made today to secure Charles A. Bookwalter, former Mayor of Indianapolis, and if he can be secured he will look after the heavy end of the oratory.

The several plans and propositions which will be submitted to the club for consideration and action mean that there will be much doing besides the eating and talking, and it is altogether probable that action will be taken on some definite and clear cut propositions for the future growth and usefulness of the organization.

GERMAN SUBMARINES SINK FRENCH TRANSPORT

Yser, Formerly the Dacia, Sent to Bottom, in Mediterranean—Registry Transferred.

By United Press.
Paris, November 9—German submarines sank the French transport, Yser, formerly the Dacia, and the Italian steamship, Elisa Francesca, in the Mediterranean Saturday, the admiralty admitted today.

The Dacia was transferred early in the war from German to American registry. The allies refused to recognize the validity of the change and when the vessel sailed for Europe with a cargo of cotton, it was seized by a French war vessel, the cargo confiscated and the vessel taken over.

SEASON SCHEDULE FOR BASKET BALL

Local High School Team Will Meet Washington, Bedford, North Vernon and Others This Winter.

AUSTIN WILL COME HERE NOV. 19

Coach Hendershot Enthusiastic Over Prospects of Team—Practice Continues Regularly.

Friday night, November 19, will mark the opening of the Shields high school basket ball season and on that date the Seymour and Austin teams will clash on the local floor. The team has been practicing for several weeks and according to Coach Wilfred Hendershot is in good trim for the initial contest. The coach expects the team this year to be a winner, but said that the boys will have to practice regularly and work hard if a good showing is made at the close of the season.

Inter-class games have been arranged at the high school gymnasium for next Saturday night. Picked teams from the Seniors and Freshmen will meet and the Juniors and Sophomores will also play. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged to this game in order to help defray the expenses of making the trips which are planned during the winter. The admission of 25 cents to the games on the regular schedule will be used to pay the expenses of bringing the visiting teams here.

Coach Hendershot has practically completed the schedule for the winter. Three or four more games will probably be scheduled as negotiations are on for the local boys to meet Franklin, Columbus, Danville and one or two other schools. As the schedule is arranged now it is:

November 19—Austin at Seymour.
December 3—Southport at Seymour.
December 10—Washington at Seymour.
December 17—Crothersville at Crothersville.
December 24—Bedford at Bedford.
January 14—Southport at Southport.
January 21—North Vernon at Seymour.
January 28—Washington at Washington.
February 11—Crothersville at Seymour.
February 25—North Vernon at North Vernon.

Of the ten games scheduled five will be played at home and an equal number on other floors. The team is expecting a real scrap when it goes up against Washington, Southport, Bedford and North Vernon but will be ready for the opposing forces. "There is good material in the squad this fall," said Coach Hendershot today. "If the boys keep eligible in their school work and will train we will have a team that will give all of them a hard scrap. What we do is largely up to the boys. I think the team realizes that success comes only with hard work and it is important that they practice regularly during the season."

There are quite a number of boys out for the different positions, and according to the coach the team cannot be selected until some of the likely material has been given a chance to show what they can do. Sumner, Boyles and Glasson are candidates for forwards, while McCurdy and Burton are after center. Riley, Cross, Mackey and Ackerman are fighting for places as guards on the regular team. Some of the players are showing up exceptionally well and a few have the benefit of last year's experience.

Practice will be continued until the time for the game with Austin. By this contest the school will be able to get a "line" on what the team will likely do during the remainder of the season. The high schools confidently expects the local team to defeat Austin by a good score, but the reports from Austin indicate that the team here is unusually strong this year and will put up a battle within the intention of winning.

RICHARD M. MILBURN WAS WELL KNOWN IN SEYMOUR

Succeeded Thomas M. Honan as Attorney-General of Indiana—Governor Names Successor.

The late Attorney-General Richard M. Milburn, who died suddenly today at the Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis, had many friends here. Thomas M. Honan, whom Mr. Milburn succeeded in the attorney-general's office, was notified of Mr. Milburn's death by the Republican Office a few minutes after the message was received here. Mr. Honan and Mr. Milburn were close friends and were associated together a great deal in politics.

Mr. Honan said that he had no idea who would be appointed to fill the attorney-general's office during the unexpired term. He said that Edwin Corr, of Bloomington, and Senator George W. Curtis, of Mt. Vernon, had been candidates before the convention that nominated Mr. Milburn. Frequently in case of the death of an official before his term of office expires one of his opponents is appointed to succeed him and it is possible that this may be done in this case. The appointment will be made by Governor Ralston. Mr. Corr was a deputy under Mr. Honan.

Another local man who was deeply touched by the news of Mr. Milburn's death was the Rev. J. H. Carnes, pastor of the First M. E. church. He and Mr. Milburn were boyhood friends and often visited together. Scores of other people here were acquainted with Mr. Milburn and were grieved to hear of his sudden death.

FEDERAL PRISONERS SEEK RELEASE FROM INSTITUTION

Alleged Dynamite Conspirators Appeal to President Wilson to Clemency.

By United Press.
Washington, November 9—A personal plea was made to President Wilson today for clemency in the cases of Frank Ryan, former president of the Constructional Iron Workers, now in Leavenworth Prison serving a term as one of the dynamite conspirators, and thirteen of his fellow prisoners.

The men making the plea are Arthur Holder, of the American Federation of Labor; George Fitzgerald, of the Structural Iron Workers Union and M. P. Alifas, of the Machinists' Union. The men have served about one third of their time. No mention was made in the appeal today of the McNamara brothers.

SUDDEN DEATH OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

Richard M. Milburn, Aged 50, Succumbs After Brief Illness With Leakage of Heart.

HEALTH FAILING SOME TIME

Vacancy Caused by His Death Will be Filled by Appointment by Governor Ralston.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, November 9—Richard M. Milburn, 50, attorney-general of Indiana, died today at the Methodist Hospital of leakage of the heart. Though he had been ailing for some time his death was sudden.

The attorney-general was elected on the Democratic ticket and had a year and two months yet to serve. Milburn became seriously ill late yesterday and was taken to the hospital.

Mr. Milburn conducted a vigorous speaking campaign stumping the entire state before election and at his office the opinion was expressed that his health was undermined at that time.

Mr. Milburn's home was in Jasper, Dubois county. He moved to Indianapolis following his election. He was one of the best known lawyers in the southwest portion of Indiana. At one time he represented Dubois and Daviess counties in the state senate.

The vacancy caused by Mr. Milburn's death will be filled by appointment by Governor Ralston. His successor may be appointed at any time. The governor is at present in Ohio.

Mr. Milburn continued his activities despite repeated warnings from his doctors. He is survived by his widow and five children.

The body will be sent to Jasper tomorrow and the funeral will be held there at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

ALLIES FEAR GREECE MAY NOT REMAIN NEUTRAL

There Are Hints That an Understanding May be Reached With Bulgaria.

By United Press.
London, November 9—The behaviour of Greece is beginning to alarm the allies. Pro-German sentiment is growing in Athens. Inside information is that the Greeks may not even stay neutral. There are hints of an understanding with the Bulgarians.

The people are still with the allies, it is thought, but this is not even certain. Strong court influences have been brought to bear and unquestionably it has produced some impression. More than anywhere else it has been affected among army officers.

MEXICAN MOBS

RAID AND LOOT

Attack German Consulate at Chihuahua.

MARKET HOUSES ARE BURNED

Both Villa and Carranza Soldiers Lead Mobs In Rioting and Looting—Carranza Men Plunder Manzanillo—Women and Children Injured.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 9.—Unpaid Villa soldiers, civilians and women, composed a mob which raided the German consulate in Chihuahua, burned the market house and looted the headquarters of the confiscation agency, according to Americans who arrived here from Chihuahua.

The rioting started when the soldiers made a demand for their pay upon the officers of the Chihuahua garrison. Having no money the commander attempted to put them off by promising money later.

Following the rioting the Villa commander in Chihuahua levied a forced loan of $100,000 Mexican gold on the merchants and wealthy residents in order to obtain money with which to pay the rioting troops, according to the Americans.

The soldiers, joined by a mob of men and women, then went to the market house, set fire to it after taking out quantities of food, and proceeded to the German consulate where silver and lead bullion belonging to the Chihuahua mining company is said to have been seized.

The confiscation agency was then visited, but nothing of value found there. The forced loan raised sufficient money to pay off the troops and the mob then dispersed.

Simultaneously with this report, news was received here that Carranza soldiers had looted Manzanillo. Some of the fresh troops sent there by steamer to take the field against Villistas nearby, are said to have refused to take the field until after they had taken what they wanted from the markets and stores of the city. Policemen and soldier guards were overcome. In the rioting a number of women and children were trampled and shot.

The news was received here in telegram from San Francisco, having been brought there by the steamer Solona, which took the troops to Manzanillo and which was in port when the looting took place.

NEW MAMMOTH AEROPLANES

American Aircraft Is In Use by Great Britain.

New York, Nov. 9.—American-built aeroplanes of the flying boat type, which, in the opinion of experts, could easily cross the Atlantic in a single flight, are being used by Great Britain for the protection of its war and merchant ships.

According to Henry Woodhouse, a governor of the Aero club of America, the Curtiss factories in Buffalo are turning out twelve of these dreadnaughts every day and the Curtiss Canadian factory at Toronto, five. All these machines are being shipped in parts to England, to be assembled on the other side.

HAVE NO OPINION ON NOTE

British Would Study Document Before Expressing Views.

London, Nov. 9.—The authorities on international law are diffident about expressing an opinion on the new American note until they have thoroughly digested its contents.

Sir Frederick Pollock, after a cursory reading, said that at the present time he is only willing to say that there are several arguable questions. These matters, however, he said, are not necessarily settled by the strict legal letter of the law, so that he is hopeful some method of agreeable settlement can be reached.

America First

[America first, last and all the time.—President Wilson's speech to Washington D. A. R.]

He has put in terse words what we've wanted to hear. Our policy crystallized, clean cut and clear. And sounded a warning to foes, far or near—

America first!

It's no mere set phrase when it's spoken like this; Words carelessly uttered, ideas hit or miss. Just small talk, forgot in security's bliss—

America first!

It stands for a nation, in majesty, might, That tolerates freedom when freedom is right, But frowns on opinions, cults, deeds, black as night—

America first!

It means a great people that's welded as one, With purposes, motives, as clear as the sun, With nothing to hide, no inspection to shun—

America first!

It puts in the shameful minority small. The noisy self seeker, the demagogues all; It makes the true patriot loom up so tall—

America first!

It relegates hyphens to where they belong, Though holding no homeland love traitorous or wrong. Three cheers for the phrase! Now! Come out with it strong—

AMERICA FIRST!

INDIANA LIBRARY TRUSTEES

Seventh Annual Meeting at Indianapolis, Nov. 17-18.

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—The seventh annual meeting of the Indiana Library Trustees association will be held at the Hotel Severin, Indianapolis, on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 17 and 18.

This association has grown from a mere handful of library board members, gathered together seven years ago, to discuss library matters in general, until today it has a membership of several hundred. There are about one hundred and eighty public libraries in Indiana, most of which send one or more representatives to these annual gatherings.

The program for the coming meeting is especially interesting, with Melville Dewey, of Lake Placid, N. Y., as the principal speaker for the Wednesday night session. Others on the program are J. J. Pettijohn, director of extension division, Indiana university; George B. Utley, secretary of the American Library association; Professor Will D. Howe and Henry N. Sanborn.

The officers of the I. L. T. A. are: President, Mrs. Elizabeth Claypool Earl, Connersville; vice-president, H. B. Pike, Clinton; secretary, Orville C. Pratt, Wabash, and treasurer, Mrs. Ora Thompson Ross, Rensselaer.

CHILD FALLS IN CISTERN

Woman Uses Rake to Save Small Son From Drowning.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 9.—The presence of mind of Mrs. Edna Jacobs, living in the northeastern part of the city, enabled her to save the life of her two-and-one-half-year-old son, Richard, who had fallen into a cistern.

She was calling on a neighbor named Wolf, living at 1459 Plum street, and the child went out into the back yard to play. Mrs. Jacobs was talking to Mrs. Wolfe when she glanced out of the kitchen window just in time to see the little fellow disappear into an open cistern. She rushed out of the room, and seizing a rake that was fortunately lying nearby, thrust it into the child's clothing and drew him out of the water. The child was not injured.

WEBB-KENYON ACT UPHELD

Supreme Court Sustains Decision of Lower Court.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 9.—The constitutionality of the Webb-Kenyon act, removing the interstate character and protection from liquor shipped into a state to be used in violation of law, was upheld by the Kansas supreme court.

The Missouri-Pacific company had appealed from a decision of a state district court fining the road $100, on each of twelve counts for delivering intoxicating liquors within the state, in violation of the Mahin law requiring railroads to file statements of liquor shipped into the state.

WOODSTOCK BAPTISTS ARE ENLARGING THE BUILDING

Growing Congregation and Sunday School Require More Room and Better Accommodations.

The Woodstock Baptist Church has begun work on an addition to their building. The new room will be 20 by 30 feet, and will be added to the north end of the present building, increasing the size of the present auditorium. In the new addition also will be a new primary room. The present building is being raised sixteen inches and a furnace will be installed in the basement which is being constructed under the new addition. This will supply heat for the entire building, and will make the stoves now used for heating unnecessary. A drain is being put into the new basement also.

For several months the growing work in this community has been taxing the present building to its capacity to care for the needs of the church. The new addition will add materially to the available room, and will assist in caring for the needs of the various departments of the church work.

A Busy Street.

I love a busy, bustling town! One day they put the paving down, All nice and smooth and sweet; and then Next day they tear it up again. From one end of the street back to Its other end, that's what they do; And then they get it smooth and flat, And give it its last loving pat. And then there is a shriek of fear Comes from the city engineer— He has mislaid his monkey wrench! And instantly they start a trench And toss the pavement all around Until the monkey wrench is found! And then they tamp the dirt in tight, And get it leveled off all right, And surface it with hard concrete, And make a street as is a street By putting sand and brick on that, And the steam roller makes it flat, Then they pierce that pavement through and through To lay a line of pipe or two! Then they repair that, and it lies Smoothly beneath the summer skies For, it may be, a day or two; Then there's a sewer to run through! Now, when some one you chance to meet

Talks of the "busy city street," That's what he means in this man's town, The street that's getting up and down And rolling over that way, till It just seems like it can't lie still, —Judd M. Lewis, in the Houston Post

It appears that the President is going to have some trouble with his Kitchen furniture.

About the first thing a new cabinet does these strenuous days is to arrange for a nice little crisis.

By mistake, Lord Kitchner was sent one of the invitations to join the army. And straightway he set out for the Balkans.

The money saving season is almost here. Soon the automobile can be housed for the winter.

It must be hard for those poor chaps in the movies to take the part of millionaires, clip their coupons and live in luxury—on the screen, and then draw their ten dollars at the end of the week and eat sandwiches and beans on a one arm chair.

Counting time, expense of shells and loss of efficiency the following day, an "occasional hunter" has figured that each quail costs $2.67.

This is a disturbing season for rabbits. Frequently a hunter steps on a sleeping hare and he has to move to a new place to continue his nap.

For Raw-Turnip Fiends.

Say—and it isn't bad, either, to go out and pull up a big, frosty-topped turnip with its upper half lavender or purple and its subterranean parts white; wash it under the pump, peel it with your jack-knife and slice it up in nice big hunks for crunching—hey? What say!

—Strickland Gillilan. What say? Well, we'll bet the humorist hasn't tasted a chunk of frozen turnip since he was a boy. If he has he wouldn't be a humorist.

What we wonder is this: What do the people who go automobile riding all day every Sunday in the summer do with themselves when winter comes?—Kokomo Tribune.

Why go to church, of course.

The English are grieved and the Germans are peeved, over Mr. Lansing's latest letter writing effort. This international correspondence is surely a ticklish proposition.

We doubt very much whether we would ever be able to pick the winner in an apple pie show. But we would be willing to try—provided we were empowered to carry the investigation as far as we wished.

Chances Against Him.

Uncle Mose Walsh is on the sick list. The doctor is with him, but we hope for his complete recovery.—Mansfield, Mo. Mirror.

Indianapolis is to have a thrilling Thanksgiving. A walking match on the circle is going to furnish the excitement.

Our idea of the zero in sports is a correspondence chess game.

An inspiring sight: 100,000 Chicago people parading through the city streets protesting against the enforcement of the law.

FINDS NO REMEDY EQUAL TO TANLOC

William H. Howard Says He Tried Everything Else Without Help.

Louisville, Ky., November 8, 1915.—William H. Howard, who lives at 225 West Jefferson street, here, and is widely known as an advertising man, is one of those who declares he has been greatly benefited by Tanlac, the premier preparation.

"For a long time," he said recently, "I suffered from a catarrhal affection of the stomach, and I never have found anything which did me so much good as Tanlac. I had used pretty nearly everything before my friends recommended Tanlac to me. It helped me almost at once, and I am glad to offer public testimony to its value."

Chronic catarrh, which affects the mucous membranes, is one of the most prevalent and distressing maladies known. The trouble is almost universal. Offensive breath, coughing, nervousness, sneezing, headaches, poor digestion, loss of appetite, unsound sleep and susceptibility to colds are among the results from the malady.

Tanlac has proved of special value in the treatment of catarrhal troubles. Hundreds have testified to the good it has done them. It is now being sold in Seymour at the H. H. Carter drug store.

Hoosier History in Tabloid.

(Prepared for the United Press by the Centennial Department of the Indiana Historical Commission.)

THE CAMPAIGN OF 1860.

The candidates of 1860 were Democratic, Hendricks for Governor and Turpie for Lieut. Gov., the respective Republican candidates being Lane and Morton. With a vacancy in the United States Senate to be filled by next legislature, it was understood that the head of the successful ticket would be elevated to the Senate, the second man taking the Governor's Chair. It is interesting to know that each of these four men later went to the senate in the order of Lane, Turpie, Hendricks and Morton. Lower down on the ticket were two opposing candidates for Reporter on the Supreme Court who later became notables—Michael C. Kerr and Benjamin Harrison.

SUFFRAGE DEMONSTRATION FOR EACH CONGRESSMAN

Plan is to Hold District Meetings Throughout the State About November 12.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Ind., November 9.—Just prior to the departure of each Indiana congressman for Washington, he will be treated to a suffrage demonstration in his own town, according to the plan announced today by the Woman's Franchise league of Indiana.

The plan is to hold district conventions on or near November 12, and in each case the convention will be held in the congressman's city. The gatherings will be representative of the suffrage as farwell reminders of the wishes of the women constituents.

The program of the meetings will consist of discussion of woman suffrage as a national issue. The congressman will be invited to speak and resolutions will be adopted and presented as a train letter when the members depart for Washington. It is intended that no chance shall be left for opposition on the grounds that "there is no sentiment for suffrage in my district." It is hoped through this effort to clinch a very considerable number of new votes from members now reported open to conviction. Important gains for the National Woman's Suffrage amendment are indicated, say the women.

Arriving in Washington the Senators and Congressmen will be greeted on December 14-19 by the annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association, with which the Woman's Franchise league of Indiana is affiliated. This convention will present to Congress the mass of resolutions adopted all over the country at the district conventions, and thus emphasize the nation-wide strength of the suffrage movement.

Five of Indiana's Congressmen voted for the suffrage amendment in the last congress, four of whom are returned.

It is confidently believed, by the women, that this number will be added to in the coming session.

Women Should Take Warning.

If the statement made at a New York Assembly of women, that healthy American women are so rare that they are almost extinct, is true, it is time for the women of America to take warning and look to their health. It may be headaches, backaches, dragging down pains, nervousness, mental depression that are tell-tale symptoms of some organic derangement for which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—a simple remedy made from roots and herbs—is a specific and may be relied upon to restore women to a healthy, normal condition.

There is now on exhibition at the City Library a collection of Japanese prints. These pictures are loaned by the newly formed Library Art Club of Indiana, and will be in Seymour until Nov. 12th. It is an exhibit well worth seeing, and it is hoped many will avail themselves of this opportunity to enjoy Japanese art. There is no admission fee.

Discuss Defence.

By United Press.

San Francisco, November 9.—The adjutant-general from more than half the states in the union and many officers of the National Guard attended the National Guard association meeting here today. The principal question for consideration is the Wilson-Garrison army reorganization scheme, particularly the plan to organize a "citizen army" of 400,000 men to form the second line, replacing the National Guard, which is to be the third line.

MRS. S. C. STIMPSON WILL NOT RESIGN FROM BOARD

Declares Request is Result of Same Fight Between Church and Non-Church Forces.

By United Press.

Terre Haute, Ind., November 9.—Mrs. S. C. Stimpson declared today that she positively would not resign from the board of the Woman's Franchise League of Indiana and is so doing said her opponents in the League were friendly with the non-church and liquor forces.

"I certainly do not intend to resign from the board," said Mrs. Stimpson. "This is the same fight of the non-church and liquor forces against the church and temperance forces."

At a meeting yesterday the directors of the League voted to ask Mrs. Stimpson to resign as a member. Back of the request is seen the recent fight for the presidency of the Indiana Federation of Clubs in which Mrs. Stimpson was active as an opponent of Mrs. L. J. Cox, of Terre Haute, who was defeated by Mrs. Clark Fairbank, of Fort Wayne.

FIRE ON FRENCH LINER HAS BEEN EXTINGUISHED

Richenbau Proceeding to Bordeaux, According to Wireless Sent to New York Offices.

New York, November 9.—The fire aboard the French Liner Rothenbau has been extinguished and the vessel is proceeding on her course to Bordeaux. A wireless message to the officers of the liner from Captain Joham brought this word today.

The message was timed 6 o'clock today. It was the first word received from the burning liner since the captain's wireless that fire had broken out in the reserve bunkers and that it might be necessary for him to put in at Halifax.

Mrs. Harry Carson Dead.

J. H. Boake received a telegram this afternoon announcing the death of Mrs. Harry Carson at her home in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Carson was a niece of Mrs. Boake and was the daughter of the late J. C. Van Harlingen, at one time editor of the Seymour Republican. Mrs. Carson had been ill several days, according to previous dispatches received here. She was about 38 years old. She is survived by her husband and two children. The funeral will occur Thursday afternoon, the message stated.

BAPTIST WOMEN HOLD
MISSIONARY CONFERENCERepresentatives From Churches in
Brownstown Association Attend
All Day Meeting Here.

The Woman's Missionary Conference of the Brownstown Baptist Association held its session today at the First Baptist church in this city. The president, Mrs. F. C. Foster, of Brownstown, presided. There was a representative attendance from a number of the woman's societies outside of Seymour.

At the opening session this morning a devotional service was lead by Mrs. E. E. Foster and a duet was sung by Miss Anna E. Carter and Mrs. T. R. Carter. After a short business session the societies adopted the Standard of Efficiency, which has been offered by the general society.

This Standard of Efficiency requires an associational organization meeting twice a year with a mission circle in each church and each circle raising its apportionment. Besides this the association is to have an executive committee consisting of a home director and a foreign director and the officers of the association. This executive committee is to meet at least once a year. There is also to be an advisory board consisting of the executive committees and the presidents and secretaries of all the missionary societies. The Standard also requires a secretary of education, literature, programs, exchange of books; a committee on systematic presentation of missions in Sunday School work; and a secretary for young women and children.

After dinner served at the church the afternoon session was opened by devotional service lead by Mrs. M. E. Baker. A solo was sung by Miss Esther Doane.

Miss Mildred Jones, who is a missionary among the Italians in Detroit, spoke of her work in the industrial school in that city. She began with seven girls. The number grew the next week to eleven, then to twenty and then to forty and finally to a hundred. The girls are taught sewing and after this period a Sunday School hour with bible stories, songs and bible verses follows. Miss Jones gets into the homes to tell the children bible stories connected with some pictures which she leaves and through the children she reaches the mother and older members of the family.

She says there is very little domestic unhappiness among the Italians and only one case that she knows of where a divorce is thought of. This condition she regards as remarkable since the husbands are chosen by the parents of the girls. She told of their wedding customs and then gave stories of several men who became Christians, and their loyalty to their convictions.

Miss Della Dearborn, of Indianapolis, followed with an address on the "Far Vision," covering what is being done and what needs to be done on the vision fields.

TURNED THE TABLES.

A Show Manager Who Got Even With
an Obstinate Landlord.

In the book of reminiscence that P. T. Barnum, the famous showman, wrote forty years ago there is an amusing anecdote that recalls the days when the one ring circus was the chief attraction of the long, hot summer.

The incident occurred when we were at Hanover Court House, in Virginia, wrote Mr. Barnum. It rained so heavily that we could not perform there, and Turner, manager of the show, decided to start for Richmond immediately after dinner.

He was informed by the landlord that as our agent had engaged three meals and lodging for the whole company the entire bill must be paid whether we went then or the next morning. No compromise could be effected with the stubborn landlord, and so Turner proceeded to get the worth of his money as follows:

He ordered dinner at 12 o'clock, which was duly prepared and eaten. The table was cleared and reset for supper at half past 12. At 1 o'clock we all went to bed, every man carrying a lighted candle to his room. There were thirty-six of us, and we all undressed and tumbled into bed as if we were going to stay all night. In half an hour we rose and went down to the hot breakfast that Turner had demanded and that we found smoking on the table.

Turner was very grave, the landlord was exceedingly angry, and the rest of us were convulsed with laughter at the absurdity of the whole proceeding. We disposed of our breakfast as if we had eaten nothing for ten hours and then started for Richmond satisfied that we had fairly settled with the unreasonable landlord.

Content.

Seek not to be rich, but happy. The one lies in bags, the other in content, which wealth can never give.—William Penn.

A Matter of Kin.

"Are you sisters?" asked the census taker of two colored women who sat on the tiny porch of their cabin.

"No, sir," one of the women replied; "us ain't no blood kin. You see," pointing to a rather pretentious looking house on the hill, "hit's dis er way. Sanders, up dar in de white house, he married me fust; den Sis' Liza heah come 'long, an' he 'vorsted me an' put me out heah in de cabin so he could marry her. But bimeby he 'vorsted her, and den he fetch her down de hill to de cabin to make room for dat young gal, Cora, he done married. No, sir, us ain't no blood kin—I guess we's wives-in-law."—Everybody's.

"ARE YOU SISTERS?"

Would Go Even Further.

Judge Porter, a popular Irish magistrate of some years ago, in sentencing a notorious drunkard, said:

"You will be confined in jail for the longest period the law allows, and I hope you will spend your time in cursing whisky."

"I will, sir," promptly answered the toper, "and Porter too."

The Daughter Understood.

Once upon a time a fond mother disapproved of her daughter marrying. This was the more awkward because the young lady had picked the young man out. Also he had wealth. And the mother, who was widowed, had not the wherewithal to furnish her daughter with the variety of frocks and things which her youthful heart craved. "I might not object to the man so much," said the mother one evening. "If you would only let me see him. But here is a man whom I have never set eyes on and yet one whom you insist on taking for a husband. I don't understand such secrecy!"

The daughter replied, "If I ever introduced him you'd insist on marrying him yourself."

A Perfect Program.

This one has the merit of being true, anyhow: The official pessimist of a small city, a gentleman who had wrestled with chronic dyspepsia for years, stood in front of the postoffice as the noon whistles sounded.

"Twelve o'clock, eh?" he said half to himself and half to an acquaintance. "Well, I'm going home to dinner. If dinner ain't ready I'm going to raise the very mischief, and if it is ready I ain't going to eat a bite."—Saturday Evening Post.

Bad Business.

Beguiled by the attractive wording of an advertisement appearing in a trade paper, a trusting investor from the north bought a sawmill in a rather poor lumber district in the south. When he went to take over his newly purchased property and to assume its management the recent owner met him at the railroad station and bade him welcome.

As they climbed into the native's buggy to drive through the woods to the spot where the plant was located the stranger said:

"I wish you'd give me a few hints right off about how to run this business profitably. You see, I'm a little bit green at this line. I've been a lumber dealer all my life, but I never undertook to handle the raw material before."

"Well, mister," stated the native frankly, "I wish I could give you the advice you want, but I reckon I jest don't know myself. My father-in-law died and left me this here mill in his will. My two boys helped me to run her, and there wasn't no other hands, and so I never had to pay out nothin' for wages. I stole all the timber I cut, and my stepbrother, who's the division freight agent for the railroad, used to slip all my lumber out for me, so I never had to pay no freight charges, and last year I come out $2,700 behind."—Saturday Evening Post.

Wondered What He Choked On.

An Idaho guide whose services were retained by some wealthy young easterners desirous of hunting in the north-west evidently took them to be the greenest of tenderfeet, since he undertook to chaff them with a recital something as follows:

"It was my first grizzly, so I was mighty proud to kill him in a hand to hand struggle. We started to fight about sunrise. When he finally gave up the ghost the sun was going down."

At this point the guide paused to note the effect of his story. Not a word was said by the easterners, so the guide added very slowly, "for the second time."

"I gather, then," said one young gentleman, a dapper little Bostonian, "that it required a period of two days to enable you to dispose of that grizzly."

"Two days and a night," said the guide, with a grin. "That grizzly died mighty hard."

"Choked to death?" asked the Bostonian.

"Yes, sir," said the guide. "Pardon me," continued the Hubite, "but what did you try to get him to swallow?"—Exchange.

He Was No Lover of Music.

All English battalions were recently warned to keep a careful watch for any contrivances which the Germans might use with the object of producing poisonous gases. Shortly afterward a certain regiment on taking over some trenches found an old bagpipe left in the lines. At once the colonel, who possessed a rare sense of humor, sent the following message to brigade headquarters: "A weird instrument has just been discovered in my trenches. It is believed to be used for producing asphyxiating noises."

Merely a Matter of Business.

Young Mrs. Scott was attending her first ball game. The home team was going well that day, and for a time she patiently endured her husband's transports and his brief explanations. But when, amid the cheering, howling crowd he sprang upon the seat, waved his new straw hat three times around his head and almost shattered it on the fat man in front Mrs. Scott exclaimed:

"What on earth's the matter, John?" "Why, dearie," he answered as soon as he could get his breath, "didn't you see the feller catch that ball?"

"Of course," said young Mrs. Scott earnestly. "I thought that was what he was out there for."—Everybody's.

—They said she would not find the little suit outside of a big city, but she found it down at the big store in your own city.

The other day a lady had been tipped off by a friend in the city what the new thing was in the way of a little boys suit so she sat out in search of correct apparel for the little man.

At different stores she was told they did not have them, some said they were not correct, etc., until finally the lady began to think the search was in vain. Coming down to the big store that's doing things she found just the identical thing, the very suit she had been inquiring for.

Now we've had a lot of such instances; in fact, the original shipment went right out, and they are going after the second.

So they must look pretty good.

State vs. Thurman Bridgwater, assault and battery; trial by court and finding of not guilty, defendant discharged.

Mrs. Harry Carson Dead.

J. H. Boake received a telegram this afternoon announcing the death of Mrs. Harry Carson at her home in Pittsburg. Mrs. Carson was a niece of Mrs. Boake and was the daughter of the late J. C. Van Harlingen, at one time editor of the Seymour Republican. Mrs. Carson had been ill several days, according to previous dispatches received here. She was about 38 years old. She is survived by her husband and two children. The funeral will occur Thursday afternoon, the message stated.

BAPTIST WOMEN HOLD
MISSIONARY CONFERENCERepresentatives From Churches in
Brownstown Association Attend
All Day Meeting Here.

The Woman's Missionary Conference of the Brownstown Baptist Association held its session today at the First Baptist church in this city. The president, Mrs. F. C. Foster, of Brownstown, presided. There was a representative attendance from a number of the woman's societies outside of Seymour.

At the opening session this morning a devotional service was lead by Mrs. E. E. Foster and a duet was sung by Miss Anna E. Carter and Mrs. T. R. Carter. After a short business session the societies adopted the Standard of Efficiency, which has been offered by the general society.

This Standard of Efficiency requires an associational organization meeting twice a year with a mission circle in each church and each circle raising its apportionment. Besides this the association is to have an executive committee consisting of a home director and a foreign director and the officers of the association. This executive committee is to meet at least once a year. There is also to be an advisory board consisting of the executive committees and the presidents and secretaries of all the missionary societies. The Standard also requires a secretary of education, literature, programs, exchange of books; a committee on systematic presentation of missions in Sunday School work; and a secretary for young women and children.

After dinner served at the church the afternoon session was opened by devotional service lead by Mrs. M. E. Baker. A solo was sung by Miss Esther Doane.

Miss Mildred Jones, who is a missionary among the Italians in Detroit, spoke of her work in the industrial school in that city. She began with seven girls. The number grew the next week to eleven, then to twenty and then to forty and finally to a hundred. The girls are taught sewing and after this period a Sunday School hour with bible stories, songs and bible verses follows. Miss Jones gets into the homes to tell the children bible stories connected with some pictures which she leaves and through the children she reaches the mother and older members of the family.

She says there is very little domestic unhappiness among the Italians and only one case that she knows of where a divorce is thought of. This condition she regards as remarkable since the husbands are chosen by the parents of the girls. She told of their wedding customs and then gave stories of several men who became christians, and their loyalty to their convictions.

Miss Della Dearborn, of Indianapolis, followed with an address on the "Far Vision," covering what is being done and what needs to be done on the vision fields.

TURNED THE TABLES.

A Show Manager Who Got Even With
an Obstinate Landlord.

In the book of reminiscence that P. T. Barnum, the famous showman, wrote forty years ago there is an amusing anecdote that recalls the days when the one ring circus was the chief attraction of the long, hot summer.

The incident occurred when we were at Hanover Court House, in Virginia, wrote Mr. Barnum. It rained so heavily that we could not perform there, and Turner, manager of the show, decided to start for Richmond immediately after dinner.

He was informed by the landlord that as our agent had engaged three meals and lodging for the whole company the entire bill must be paid whether we went then or the next morning. No compromise could be effected with the stubborn landlord, and so Turner proceeded to get the worth of his money as follows:

He ordered dinner at 12 o'clock, which was duly prepared and eaten. The table was cleared and reset for supper at half past 12. At 1 o'clock we all went to bed, every man carrying a lighted candle to his room. There were thirty-six of us, and we all undressed and tumbled into bed as if we were going to stay all night. In half an hour we rose and went down to the hot breakfast that Turner had demanded and that we found smoking on the table.

Turner was very grave, the landlord was exceedingly angry, and the rest of us were convulsed with laughter at the absurdity of the whole proceeding. We disposed of our breakfast as if we had eaten nothing for ten hours and then started for Richmond satisfied that we had fairly settled with the unreasonable landlord.

Content.

Seek not to be rich, but happy. The one lies in bags, the other in content, which wealth can never give.—William Penn.

A Matter of Kin.

"Are you sisters?" asked the census taker of two colored women who sat on the tiny porch of their cabin.

"No, sir," one of the women replied; "us ain't no blood kin. You see," pointing to a rather pretentious looking house on the hill. "hit's dis er way, Sanders, up dar in de white house, he married me fu'st; den Sis' Liza heah come 'long, an' he 'vorsted me an' put me out heah in de cabin so he could marry her. But bimbe he 'vorsted her, and den he fetch her down de hill to de cabin to make room for dat young gal, Cora, he done married. No, sir, us ain' no blood kin—I guess we's wives-in-law."—Everybody's.

"ARE YOU SISTERS?"

Would Go Even Further.

Judge Porter, a popular Irish magistrate of some years ago, in sentencing a notorious drunkard, said:

"You will be confined in jail for the longest period the law allows, and I hope you will spend your time in cursing whisky."

"I will, sir," promptly answered the toper, "and Porter too."

The Daughter Understood.

Once upon a time a fond mother disapproved of her daughter marrying. This was the more awkward because the young lady had picked the young man out. Also he had wealth. And the mother, who was widowed, had not the wherewithal to furnish her daughter with the variety of frocks and things which her youthful heart craved. "I might not object to the man so much," said the mother one evening. "If you would only let me see him. But here is a man whom I have never set eyes on and yet one whom you insist on taking for a husband. I don't understand such secrecy!"

The daughter replied, "If I ever introduced him you'd insist on marrying him yourself."

A Perfect Program.

This one has the merit of being true, anyhow: The official pessimist of a small city, a gentleman who had wrestled with chronic dyspepsia for years, stood in front of the postoffice as the noon whistles sounded.

"Twelve o'clock, eh?" he said half to himself and half to an acquaintance. "Well, I'm going home to dinner. If dinner ain't ready I'm going to raise the very mischief, and if it is ready I ain't going to eat a bite."—Saturday Evening Post.

Bad Business.

Beguiled by the attractive wording of an advertisement appearing in a trade paper, a trusting investor from the north bought a sawmill in a rather poor lumber district in the south. When he went to take over his newly purchased property and to assume its management the recent owner met him at the railroad station and bade him welcome.

As they climbed into the native's buggy to drive through the woods to the spot where the plant was located the stranger said:

"I wish you'd give me a few hints right off about how to run this business profitably. You see, I'm a little bit green at this line. I've been a lumber dealer all my life, but I never undertook to handle the raw material before."

"Well, mister," stated the native frankly, "I wish I could give you the advice you want, but I reckon I jest don't know myself. My father-in-law died and left me this here mill in his will. My two boys helped me to run her, and there wasn't no other hands, and so I never had to pay out nothin' for wages. I stole all the timber I cut, and my stepbrother, who's the division freight agent for the railroad, used to slip all my lumber out for me, so I never had to pay no freight charges, and last year I come out $2,700 behind."—Saturday Evening Post.

Isle of Somewhere.

Somewhere the sun is shining;
Somewhere the song birds dwell.
Hush, then, thy sad repining,
God lives, and all is well.

Somewhere the day is longer;
Somewhere the task is done;
Somewhere the heart is stronger,
Somewhere the guerdon won.

Wondered What He Choked On.

An Idaho guide whose services were retained by some wealthy young easterners desirous of hunting in the north-west evidently took them to be the greenest of tenderfeet, since he undertook to chaff them with a recital something as follows:

"It was my first grizzly, so I was mighty proud to kill him in a hand to hand struggle. We started to fight about sunrise. When he finally gave up the ghost the sun was going down."

At this point the guide paused to note the effect of his story. Not a word was said by the easterners, so the guide added very slowly, "for the second time."

"I gather, then," said one young gentleman, a dapper little Bostonian, "that it required a period of two days to enable you to dispose of that grizzly."

"Two days and a night," said the guide, with a grin. "That grizzly died mighty hard."

"Choked to death?" asked the Bostonian.

"Yes, sir," said the guide. "Pardon me," continued the flubite, "but what did you try to get him to swallow?"—Exchange.

He Was No Lover of Music.

All English battalions were recently warned to keep a careful watch for any contrivances which the Germans might use with the object of producing poisonous gases. Shortly afterward a certain regiment on taking over some trenches found an old bagpipe left in the lines. At once the colonel, who possessed a rare sense of humor, sent the following message to brigade headquarters: "A weird instrument has just been discovered in my trenches. It is believed to be used for producing asphyxiating noises."

Merely a Matter of Business.

Young Mrs. Scott was attending her first ball game. The home team was going well that day, and for a time she patiently endured her husband's transports and his brief explanations. But when, amid the cheering, howling crowd he sprang upon the seat, waved his new straw hat three times around his head and almost shattered it on the fat man in front Mrs. Scott exclaimed:

"What on earth's the matter, John?" "Why, dearie," he answered as soon as he could get his breath, "didn't you see the feller catch that ball?"

"Of course," said young Mrs. Scott indignantly. "I thought that was what he was out there for."—Everybody's.

—They said she would not find the little suit outside of a big city, but she found it down at the big store in your own city.

The other day a lady had been tipped off by a friend in the city what the new thing was in the way of a little boys suit so she sat out in search of correct apparel for the little man.

At different stores she was told they did not have them, some said they were not correct, etc., until finally the lady began to think the search was in vain. Coming down to the big store that's doing things she found just the identical thing, the very suit she had been inquiring for.

Now we've had a lot of such instances; in fact, the original shipment went right out, and they are going after the second.

So they must look pretty good.

Here's what we're trying to get at: WHEN YOU ARE LOOKING FOR THE NEW THINGS, SAVE THE UNNECESSARY STEPS—COME TO THE BIG STORE FIRST.

OPEN ROAD TO CONSTANTINOPLE

Teutons Capture Last Link In Orient Railroad.

OPERATIONS IN BULGARIA

New Allied Offensive to Shift Balkan Operations to Bulgaria. Where They May Meet German Armies in Battle and Form New Stumbling Road.

London, Nov. 9.—The Teutons have opened the road from Berlin to Constantinople.

Berlin has announced that the Serbian sector of the Orient railroad has been cleared of the defenders. The lion's share of this highly important military achievement, the immediate purpose of the Serbian invasion, belongs to the Bulgarian center, commanded by General Bojadjeff, who, by the capture of Nish, the war capital, made the thirty-five miles of rail untenable, even for the "defence to the knife" of the Serbians, whose bravery and tenacity is frankly admitted by the German war office.

In the forty-eight hours passed since the fall of Kruzevac, the Teutons, leaving the main invasion of western Serbia to the Austro-Hungarians, have reached the Orient railroad and are now believed well on the way to Nish.

The city of Kruzevac, five miles west of the Orient railroad and about thirty-five miles from Nish, fell into the hands of the German invaders shortly after the war capital had fallen to their Balkan ally. With it the Serbians were deprived of their last arsenal. Two thousand unwounded Serbians were captured in the city and the captors also found 1,500 wounded in the hospitals. The booty was rich in ammunition, war material and medical supplies.

With the road to the Bosphorus clear, and with the Belgrade-Nish-Salonica line in their hands from the starting point of Kuprili with the so eagerly coveted Serbian Macedonia—which they themselves call "Bulgarian"—practically overrun and controlled by the Bulgarian central and southern armies, the invaders now could call the task in Serbia completed, but for two facts which render the task one which only now begins, namely the Serbian main army is intact, ready at the first opportunity to resume the offensive, and secondly, there is now an allied army in the south.

The 13,000 men originally dispatched to Salonica, it is argued here, could not "save" Serbia. The present Anglo-French force, many times as strong as the first expedition, fresh and unbeaten, is now in a position to launch serious operations. These will have for their chief objective, the recovery of the two vital railroad lines. Already the sudden intensity of the fighting at the Babuna pass, with Veleo, on the Salonica-Nish line, as the allies' goal, and around Strumitza, the Bulgarian stronghold, foreshadow the shifting of the main field of the Balkan operations to the south and perhaps, ultimately to Bulgaria.

As the Teutons are setting about to sweep to the Turkish capital—or at least to start the supply and ammunition trains to their Turkish allies, the Anglo-French forces, already in possession of a strip of Bulgarian territory, are beginning, it is believed by military critics, to batter the Bulgarian lines with the object of reaching the Orient railroad in Bulgaria, there to give battle to the Teutons, if they come, or to form a new stumbling block on the road to the Ottoman capital.

POLICE HEAD GOES TO JAIL

Fined $25 and Costs and Sentenced on Graft Charge.

Goshen, Ind., Nov. 9.—Before Judge Drake in the circuit court here, Edgar J. Vesey, chief of police, pleaded guilty to a charge of extortion in the levying and collecting of fees in police courts. He was fined $25 and sentenced to jail for five days. Vesey was forced to resign his office as the result of wholesale prosecutions of Elkhart township and Goshen city officials.

In consideration of the Rev. John A. Wood, eighty years old, a Christian church minister, surrendering his place as justice of the peace, two extortion cases against him were dismissed. M. M. Galentine, seventy-six years old, a farmer justice, pleaded guilty several days ago and sentence is pending.

Object to Albanian Blockade.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—A request that the government protest against the Italian declaration of a blockade of the Albanian coast was embodied in a resolution passed at a mass meeting of friends of Albanian. The resolution was presented by George Fred Williams. It will be sent to President Wilson and to congress.

Shoot Three More Belgians.

Amsterdam (via London), Nov. 9.—A dispatch from Brussels, by way of Berlin, says: "A field court-martial has sentenced to death three Belgians and condemned another to twelve years imprisonment since February 15. The sentences were confirmed and executed."

KING PETER

Servian Monarch Narrowly Escapes Capture by Germans.

Salonica, Nov. 9.—King Peters of Servia narrowly escaped capture when Kraljevo was captured by German troops, according to a dispatch received here. The sick monarch was carried out of Kraljevo only a few hours before the city was taken.

FRENCH SHIP, AFIRE ON OCEAN, SEEKS PORT

Fire Suspected to Be Work of Bomb Plotters.

New York, Nov. 9.—The Rochambeau, French line steamship, two days out of New York for Bordeaux, which reported by wireless that there was a fire in its coal bunkers, presumably was steaming for Halifax, the nearest port.

Aboard the menaced steamer are approximately 650 persons—421 passengers and a crew of about 230—and a large cargo of war supplies, including 2,541 cases of cartridges and 136 bales of cotton.

Its exact position was not given in the single wireless message that brought news of its plight to land, but it was calculated that it would make Halifax some time soon.

The fire is deep in the hold, in the bunkers where is placed the reserve supply of coal. Its exact location, according to the wireless message sent by Captain Juham, is No. 5 reserve coal bunker, which is located amidship. The message read:

"Fire in No. 5 reserve coal bunkers. Fighting fire and have turned to Halifax. Hope to put it out. No danger at all."

The Rochambeau left New York two days ago. It was estimated that it had sailed 600 miles when the wireless message was received. This would still keep it within the ocean lane traveled by the big trans-Atlantic liners.

Martime circles wondered if the accident was another of the long list attributed to the activity of bomb carriers and plotters.

GEORGIA BANK IS CLOSED UP

Comptroller of the Currency Announces Bank Failure.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The comptroller of the currency issued the following statement:

"First National Bank of Toccoa, Ga., capital $75,000, surplus $30,000, deposits about $150,000, has closed its doors.

"Its failure is due to continued mismanagement. The tying up of its capital and deposits in loans to its president, vice-president, cashier and other directors and enterprises in which these officers and directors are interested. Other irregularities include excessive borrowings, unlawful real estate loans and other violations of the national bank act against which the bank has been repeatedly warned by this office."

COMMITTS SUICIDE AT HOME

Man Found Dead by Wife With Knife Blade In Chest.

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 9.—Charles E. Sheffield, age forty-five, recently chief timekeeper for the Saffron Manufacturing company, committed suicide by stabbing himself twice with a pocket knife at his home.

Sheffield had been suffering from alcoholism and was despondent since the loss of employment four weeks ago. When Sheffield returned home he sat down in a chair in the library. Mrs. Sheffield thought her husband was asleep when she heard a cry. Mrs. Sheffield and two sisters ran into the library and found Mr. Sheffield dead in the chair. A knife blade was imbedded in his chest.

AWAIT EFFECT OF U. S. NOTE

Answer From British Not Expected For Month.

TURNING POINT NOW SEEN

All Cargoes of Noncontraband Goods Destined For Germany or Through Neutrals to Enemies of Britain Now Viewed as Immune.

Washington, Nov. 9.—After reading American and British press comment on the latest note sent by the United States to Great Britain, President Wilson and Secretary Lansing awaited the effect of the document upon British treatment of neutral overseas trade.

Among all of the allied diplomats the view prevailed that the controversy would not become acute, it being pointed out that, even if a deadlock was reached in the negotiations, the Bryan peace treaties still were available for a year's investigation of the points in dispute. These facts have been ratified between the United States and all of the allies.

Ambassador Page has not reported the impression made upon the British foreign office. So far as American shippers are concerned, however, the dispatch of the note marks a turning point of vast importance, for henceforth the United States is to consider the British blockade as ineffective and inoperative, and "all cargoes of non-contraband goods destined for Germany or through neutral countries to the enemies of Great Britain will be viewed by this government as immune from detention.

Claims presented by Americans for detentions or seizures of such goods will be supported by the diplomatic machinery of the United States to the fullest extent.

Speculation in official quarters as to what Great Britain's course would be was varied. Some officials pointed out that if Great Britain abandoned all pretense of blockade and applied the laws of contraband the forthcoming American note on the propriety of including various articles in the contraband list would be especially pertinent to the controversy. On the other hand, if the blockade is made legal so far as German coasts are concerned the American government will continue to insist that legitimate trade with neutral countries must not be interfered with.

What American officials express particular concern about in connection with the alleged illegal practices of Great Britain is the large trade they claim Great Britain herself is carrying on with neutral ports in which American exporters are forbidden to trade. It is this feature of the situation which officials regard as most serious and indefensible. They say, if Great Britain held her own shippers to a normal trade with neutral countries, the application of rigid measures to American traders, might be less offensive, though the aspects of law would not be affected.

In German quarters the arguments in the American note were commended as sound and justified by international law. German officials, however, said they were much more interested in what measures the United States would take to obtain acquiescence to its expressed views.

In view of the length of the note an answer from Great Britain is not expected for at least a month.

CHARGE ACCESSORY THEFT

Illinois Men Arrested on Federal Court Indictment.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 9.—Charging that they had automobile accessories sent from Indianapolis under assumed names, C. O. D., and then broke into the depot and stole the parts, five men, three living at Neoga, in Cumberland county, and two at Mattoon, were indicted in the federal court of this district. The men are John C. Miller, who owns a 500-acre farm near Neoga; his son, Tony C. Miller, and Logan Estes, of Neoga, and William Royer and Isaac Flaherty of Mattoon.

The men denied the charges and have given $5,000 bond each.

Pensions For Indians.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Pensions for $12 have been granted the following Indians: Martha W. Barbour, Evansville; Deliah Holbrook, Gwynville; Mary J. McGuire, Hammond; Mary Middleton, Ft. Wayne; Rhoda A. Payne, Roanoke; Sarah E. Ketchum, Greensburg.

Place Woman on Trial.

Tipton, Ind., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Viola Alenbaugh, indicted by the grand jury as an accessory in the murder of Walter Varner of Greenfield, was placed on trial in the circuit court. A venire of fifteen was drawn and from this and the regular panel an effort is being made to obtain a jury.

Killed in Mutiny.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Thomas Brown, a native of Florida, was killed in a mutiny of the crew of the American schooner Mary Pendleton off the Azores. Consul Macherie at St. Michael's reported to the state department.

T. ST. JOHN GAFFNEY

Former U. S. Consul at Munich Decorated by King Ludwig.

Berlin, Nov. 9 (by wireless to Sayville).—T. St. John Gaffney, who recently resigned as American consul general at Munich, has been decorated by King Ludwig of Bavaria with the medal of honor, which is bestowed on civilians for voluntary services in nursing the sick.

THREE CHARGED WITH HARBOURING ROBBERS

Held In Connection With Mine Hold-Up.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 9.—George Wheeler, former Central league ball player, and James Lawhorn and Andrew Hayden are under arrest here on indictments which charge them with harboring Henry Davey and Dusty Graham in escaping the officers after the recent $8,500 robbery at the Lattas Creek coal mine office in Greene county.

Wheeler and the other men are said to have taken Graham to a hotel in this city in an automobile late on the night of the day the robbery was committed. Graham later hired a taxicab and made a wild run to Effingham, Ill. He later was arrested at Zeigler, Ill. Davey and Graham are said to have confessed to the police and were witnesses before the grand jury.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb Miller, at whose home Davey is said to have stayed after the robbery, were also arrested. They are charged with being accessories to the robbery.

MANY WOMEN HEAR CASE

Attend Trial Against the Miss Louise Bentlage Estate.

Richmond, Ind., Nov. 9.—The case of the H. C. Hasemier company, against the estate of Miss Louise Bentlage, in which the plaintiff demands $11,000, charging that discrepancies in the finances of the company during the period Miss Bentlage was bookkeeper, are chargeable to her, has gone to the jury.

The trial has been in progress three weeks. Hundreds of persons, mostly women, were at the courthouse doors awaiting admission to listen to the closing arguments of the attorneys. When attorney Henry U. Johnson questioned the integrity of the late Miss Bentlage, one thousand or more women arose en masse and hissed and reviled the speaker. After the storm Judge Sparks ordered the courtroom cleared. Many of the women became hysterical.

The courtroom was filled to overflowing when court opened and many were turned away. Several arrests on charges of contempt of court are expected.

GERMANY MAKES DENIAL

Declares She Did Not Issue False American Passports.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The charge of German spies, executed in England, that German officers, equipped them with false American passports and complete paraphernalia for making such false passports, is unqualifiedly denied by the German government in a note received at the state department.

This note is in response to representations on the part of the United States. The American note called to the attention of the Berlin government the statements of German spies, when, on trial in London, which were furnished to this government by the British.

It is also asserted by Germany that agencies for making and selling false passports of neutral countries were uncovered in territory occupied by German forces. The raiding of such an establishment in Antwerp was mentioned.

Italian Chamber Convenes.

Rome, Nov. 9.—The chamber of deputies will assemble Dec. 1.

The Scrap Book

Sarcasm That Was Lost.

In his book, "A Wanderer's Trail," A. L. Ridger unconsciously proves the old contention that an Englishman cannot see a joke, or at least that he cannot understand the American brand of humor.

It was while in San Francisco that Mr. Ridger visited some friends in Sonoma county. Wandering around the ranch, he found in a creek what he took to be rich quartz. Great excitement on the part of Mr. Ridger, then: "Bidding my charming hosts farewell I returned to San Francisco. On my way there on the train I showed my gold (?) quartz to some men sitting opposite to me. One of them, having examined a piece with a critical and knowing eye, remarked seriously: 'Gee! You've got something good there!' He followed up these words by adding that he hoped I had marked the spot from which I had obtained the specimens. I looked at him with a do-you-take-me-for-a-tenderfoot sort of air and replied loftily, 'Why, sure I did.' I had one piece of satisfaction when an assayer in San Francisco to whom I had taken the stone dryly remarked, 'Shasta mica; tons of it in the neighborhood,' and that was that I was not the only fool in the world, remembering my vis-a-vis on the train."

Thankfulness.

Though I be shut in darkness and become impatient dust blown idly here and there, I count oblivion a scant price to pay. For having once held against my lips Life's brimming cup of hydromel and rue, For having once known woman's holy love And a child's kiss and for a little space Been boon companion to the day and night (Fed on the odors of the summer dawn And folded in the beauty of the stars), Dear Lord, though I be changed to senseless clay And serve the potter as he turns his wheel, I thank thee for this gracious gift of tears! —Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Gave It Back to Them.

The newest of the new commissioned officers strolled into the sergeants' mess to have a look round. He looked exceedingly young and small and had a complexion which a society beauty might well have envied. The middle aged warriors were not at all pleased at having to kotow to this stripling, and one gruff voiced sergeant observed audibly, "And a little child shall lead us." The young officer did not appear to notice the remark and left the room. Some time later, when the men had all settled down for the night, playing cards, etc., he again entered and, addressing the sergeant, said: "You will assemble the men immediately for a twenty mile route march. And a little child shall lead you, only he'll be on horseback and you lazy duffers will walk."

True to Life.

Sandy had been photographed, and as he was looking intently at his "picter" Sam MacPherson came along. "What's that ye hiv thee?" he asked. "My photograph," replied Sandy, showing it proudly. "Whit d'ye think o' it?"

"Mon, it's fine!" exclaimed Tam in great admiration. "It's just like ye tae. An' whin micht the like o' they cost?" "I dinna ken," replied Sandy. "I hinna peyd yet."

"Mon," said Tam more firmly than ever, "it's awfu' like ye."

When Mark Woke Up.

Mark Currier of Newburyport was somewhat deaf, says "Wit and Humor of the American Pulpit," and he had acquired a habit of sleeping at intervals throughout the sermon. The Rev. Mr. Milton made up his mind to break his worthy parishioner of that very deplorable habit, and he gave Mr. Currier fair warning of his determination.

On the next Sunday he gave out an unusually long hymn. At its close Mr. Currier's head had fallen back on the railing of his pew, and his mouth was set for a fly trap. Quietly the parson rose in the pulpit and exclaimed in a voice of thunder, "Mark!"

In an instant Currier jumped to his feet and before he could realize where he was answered the supposed call upon him with an equally loud "Hello!" Perfectly regardless of him, Parson Milton continued: "Mark, I say, 'the perfect man, and behold the upright for the end of that man is peace.' You will find these words in the Thirty-seventh Psalm and thirty-seventh verse."

During the sermon that followed, Mark Currier, it need not be added, was wide awake.

Consul King David.

This amusing anecdote of Lamartine is related by the Baroness Bonde in her volume of letters. Shortly after the revolution of February he wrote on the blank leaves of his pocketbook the names of his proteges and sent the list to be provided with places immediately. Previously, however, it seems, he had scribbled "David" on the page, and the head of the cabinet appointed the said David consul at Bremen. The postulant, however, never came forward, and, though the poet did not like being disturbed, M. Hetzel was obliged to ask who was the David on his list.

"He who danced before the ark," was the answer.

"Oh, dear, I have gazetted him to Bremen!"

"How very singular! I meant him for a subject for mediation, not for nomination. But you can cancel it."

The moniteur registered the change, but few knew that the consul appointed to Bremen was King David!

Misplaced Sympathy.

Through the busy Glasgow streets a stalwart policeman led a little child by the hand.

A motherly looking woman passed before them for a moment. Then, in a sudden burst of sympathy, she bent over the child and kissed her.

"Puir wee lamb!" she breathed softly. "She looks scauld and starved like, and she hisnae been washed fur a week. Some folks canna be trusted wi' bairns, wicked, cruel things they are. Whaur did ye fin' the wean, policeman?"

"Find the wean, woman?" snorted the policeman angrily. "I didna find her at a'. She's ma ain bairn!"—Dundee Advertiser.

Actors In Retirement.

Many actors have lived long after retiring from the stage. Macready, retiring in 1851 at the age of fifty-eight, passed an honored leisure till his death at Cheltenham, England, in 1873. After Mrs. Siddons' farewell appearance as Lady Macbeth in 1812, being then in her fifty-seventh year, she spent her remaining score of years in almost unbroken retirement. The record in this respect, however, is held by that famous Master Betty whom in 1804 London acclaimed as the Infant Roscius. His positively last appearance was made on Aug. 9, 1824, at the age of thirty-two. He died in August, 1874, a "resting" of half a century.—London Standard.

CHAPTER XXIII.

If in the mountains there was one person of whom the Blue Grass knew with favor, it was Juanita Holland. She had worked quietly and without any blare of trumpets. Her efforts had never been advertised, but the thing she was trying to do was too unusual a thing to have escaped public notice and public laudation. That she was spending her life and her own large fortune in a manner of self-sacrifice and hardship was a thing of which the state had been duly apprised.

She, at least, would stand acquitted of feudal passion. She stood as a lone fighter for the spirit of all that was best and most unselfish in Kentucky ideals and the ideals of civilization.

If she chose to come now as a witness for Anse Havey, she should have a respectful hearing. The prisoner bent forward and fixed eyes blazing with excitement on the door of the witness room. He saw it open and saw her pause there, pale and rather perplexed, then she came steadily to the witness stand and asked: "Do I sit here?"

The man had known her always in the calico and gingham of the mountains. This seemed a different woman who took her seat and raised her hand to be sworn. She was infinitely more beautiful he thought, in the habiliments of her own world. She seemed a queen who had waived her regal prerogatives and come into this mean courtroom in his behalf.

His heart leaped into tumult. He would not have asked her to come; would not have permitted her to submit to the heckling of the prosecutor, whose face was already drawing into a vindictive frown, had he known. She had come, however, anyway—perhaps, after all, she cared! If so, it was a revelation worth hanging for.

Then he heard her voice low and musically pitched in answer to questions.

"I have known Mr. Havey," she said quietly, "ever since I went to the mountains. He has helped me in my work and has been an advocate of peace wherever peace could be had with honor."

At the end of each answer the commonwealth's attorney was on his feet with quickly snapped objections. Anse Havey's heart sank. He knew this man's reputation for bullying witnesses, and he had never seen a woman who had come through the ordeal unshaken. Yet slowly the anxiety on his face gave way to a smile of infinite admiration. Juanita Holland's quiet dignity made the testy wrath of the state's lawyer seem futile and peevish.

The defendant saw the subtle change of expression on the faces of the jury. He saw them shifting their sympathy from the lawyer to the woman, and the lawyer saw it, too. They kept her there, grilling her with all the tactics known to artful barristers for an unconscionable length of time, but she was still serene and unconfused.

"By heaven!" exclaimed Anse Havey to himself, as he leaned forward, "she's makin' fools of 'em all—an' she's doin' it for me!"

Even the judge, whose face had been sternly set against the defense, shifted in his chair and his expression softened. The commonwealth's attorney rose and walked forward, and Anse Havey clenched his hands under the table, while his fingers itched to seize the tormentor's throat.

"You don't know that Anse Havey didn't incite this murder. You only choose to think so. Isn't that a fact?" stormed the prosecutor.

"I know that Anse Havey is incapable of it," was the tranquil retort. "How do you know that?"

"I know him."

"Who procured your presence in this courtroom as a defense witness?" Each interrogation came with rising spite and accusation of tone.

"I asked to be allowed to come."

"Why?"

"Because I know that back of this prosecution lies the trickery of interests seeking to dispose of Anse Havey so that they may plunder his people."

The lawyer wheeled on the judge. "I must ask your honor to admonish this witness against such false and improper charges—or to punish her for contempt," he blazed furiously.

But the judge spoke without great severity as he cautioned: "Yes, the witness must not seek to imply motives to the prosecution."

If Juanita, however, was sustaining with no outward show of discomfort the savage onslaughts of a man trained in the art of confounding those who sat in the pillory of the witness chair, she was inwardly feeling need of holding her emotions masked and in check. As the questions became more and more personal, and she recognized in their trend the purpose of making her appear biased, she first flushed a little, then paled a little, but her voice betrayed no hint of annoyance.

The attorney took another step forward with a malicious smile. He paused that the next question and its answer might fall on the emphasis of a momentary silence. Then he pointed a finger toward the girl, with the manner of one branding a false witness, and demanded:

"Is there any sentimental attachment between you and this defendant, Anse Havey?"

There was a moment's dead silence in the courtroom, and Anse saw Juanita's face go white. Then he saw her finger nails whiten as they lay in her lap and a sudden flush spread to her face.

She looked toward the judge, and at once the lawyer for the defense was on his feet with the old objection: "The question is irrelevant."

Then, while counsel tilted with each other, the girl drew a long breath, and the man whose life was in the balance turned pale, too, not because of this, but because the woman he loved had been asked the question which was more to him than life and death—a question he had never dared to ask himself.

"I think," ruled the court, "the question is relevant as going to prove the credibility of the witness."

So she must answer.

The prisoner's finger nails bit into his palms and she smothered a low oath between his clenched teeth, but

"Is There Any Sentimental Attachment Between You and This Defendant?"

Juanita Holland only looked at the cross-examiner with a clear-eyed and serene glance of scorn under which he seemed to shrivel. She replied with the dignity of a young queen who can afford to ignore insults from the gutter.

"None whatever."

The defendant sat back in his chair and the smile left his lips as though he had been struck by a thunderbolt. He knew that his case was won, and yet as he saw her leave the witness stand and the courtroom, he felt sicker at heart than he had felt since he could remember. He would almost have preferred condemnation with the hope against hope left somewhere deep in his heart that there slept in hers an echo to his unuttered love.

The question he had never dared to ask she had answered—answered under oath, and liberty seemed now a very barren gift.

When he had been acquitted and was going out he saw a figure in consultation with the prosecutor—a figure which had not been inside the doors during the trial. It was Mr. Trevor of Louisville and he was testily saying: "Oh, well, there are more ways of killing a cat than by choking it with butter."

Anse Havey did not require the interpretation of an oracle for that cryptic comment. He knew that the effort to dispose of him would not end with his acquittal.

Juanita was going away to enlist her staff of teachers and arrange for the equipment of the little hospital. And Anse did not tell her of his insecurity.

"You'll promise to be very careful while I'm gone, won't you?" she demanded, as they sat together the night before she left.

"I'll try to last till you get back," he smiled. He was sitting with a pipe in his hand—a pipe which had gone out and been forgotten.

In the darkness of the porch everything was vague but herself. She seemed to him to be luminous by some light of her own. She was a very wonderful and desirable star shining far out of reach of his world.

Suddenly she laughed, and he asked:

"What is it?"

"I was just thinking what a fool I was when I came here," she answered. "Did you know that I brought a piano with me as far as Peril? It's been there over a year."

"A piano!" he echoed, then they both laughed.

"I might as well have tried to bring along the Philadelphia city hall," she admitted. "Just the same, there have been times when it won't have meant a lot to me, an awful lot, if I could have had that piano. I don't know whether music means so much to you, but to me—"

"I know," he broke in. "I sometimes 'low that life ain't much else except the summ'n' up of the things a feller dreams. Music is like dreams—it makes dreams. Yes, I know something about that."

She went away and, though she was not long gone, her absence seemed interminable to Anse Havey. He met her at the train on her return with a starved idolatry in his eyes, and together they rode back across the ridge.

But when she entered the building which had been the first schoolhouse the man drew back a step or two and watched as surreptitiously as a boy who has in due secrecy planned a surprise.

She went in and then suddenly halted and stood near the threshold in amazement. Her eyes began to dance and she gave a little gasp of delight. There against one wall stood her piano.

She turned to find Anse Havey waiting in the door as awkwardly as a green boy. Just how difficult a task it had been to bring that great weight across those roads unharmed she could only guess. He must, in effect, have built the roads before him as Napoleon built them for his armies.

She turned to him, deeply moved, and after the first flush of delight her eyes were misty.

"I wonder how I am ever going to thank you—for everything," she said softly.

But Anse Havey only answered in an embarrassed voice: "I reckon it might be a little jingly, so I had a feller come up from Lexington and tune it up."

She went over and struck a chord, then she came back and laid a hand on his coat sleeve.

"I'm not going to try to thank you at all—now," she said. "But you go home and come back this evening and we'll have a little party, just you and I—with music."

"Good-by," he said. "I reckon ye haven't noticed it—but my rifle's standin' there in your rack."

It was a night of starlight, with just a sickle moon overhead and the music of the whippoorwills in the air, when Anse presented himself again at the school. He knew that he must break off these visits because while she had been away he had taken due accounting of himself and recognized that the poignant pain of locked lips would drive him beyond control. He could no longer endure "the unlit lamp and the unglint loam." Now the sight of her set him into a palpitating fever and a burning madness. He would invent some excuse tonight and go away.

Then he came to the open door and stood on the threshold transfixed by the sight which greeted his eyes. His hat dropped to the floor and lay there. He thought he knew Juanita. Now he suddenly realized that the real Juanita he had never seen before, and as he looked at her he felt infinitely far away from her. He was a very dim, faint star in apogee.

She sat with her back turned and her fingers straying over the keys of the piano—and she was in evening dress! The shaded lamp shone softly on ivory shoulders and a string of pearls glistened at her throat. Around her slim figure the soft folds of her gown fell like gossamer draperies, and to his eyes, she was utterly and flawlessly beautiful.

She had followed a whim that night and "dressed up" to surprise him. She had promised him a party and meant to receive him with as much preparation as she would have made for royalty. But to him it was only a declaration of the difference between them, emphasizing how unattainable she was; how unthinkably remote from him own rough world.

Then, as she heard his steps and rose, she was disappointed because in his face, instead of pleasure, she read only a tumult whose dominant note was distress.

"Don't you like me?" she asked, as she gave him her hand and smiled

"Like you!" he burst out, then he caught himself with something like a gasp. "Yes," he said dully, "I like you."

For a while she played and sang, and then they went out to the porch, where she sank down in the barrel-stave hammock which hung there and he sat in a split-bottom chair by her side.

He sat very moody and silent, his hands resting on his knees, trying to repress what he could not long hope to keep under.

She seemed oblivious to his deep abstraction, for she was humming some air low, almost under her breath.

But at last she sat up and laughed a silvery and subdued yet happy little laugh. She stretched her arms above her head.

"It's good to be back, Anse," she said softly. "I've missed you—lots."

He dared not tell her how he had missed her, and he did not recognize the new note in her voice—the heart note. There was a strange silence between them, and as they sat, so close that each could almost feel the other's breath, their eyes met and held in a locked gaze.

Slowly, as though drawn by some occult power over which he held no control, the man bent a little nearer, a little nearer. Slowly the girl's eyes dilated, and then, with no word, she suddenly gave a low exclamation, half gasp, half appeal, all inarticulate, and both hands went groping out toward him.

With something almost like a cry, the man was on his knees by the hammock and both his arms were around her and her head was on his shoulder. Then he was kissing her cheeks and lips and into his soul was coming a sudden discovery with the softness and coolness of the flesh his lips touched.

It lasted only a moment, then she pushed him back gently and rose, while one bare arm went gropingly across her face and the other hand went out to the porch post for support.

In a voice low and broken she said: "You must go!"

"No!" he exclaimed, and took a step toward her, but she retreated a little and shook her head.

"Yes, dear—please," she almost whispered, and the man bowed in acquiescence.

"Good night," he said gravely, and picking up his hat, he started across the ridge.

But now there were no ghosts in his life, for all the way over that rough trail he was looking up at the stars and repeating incredulously over and over to himself: "She loves me!"

How to Prevent Croup.

It may be a surprise to you to learn that in many cases croup can be prevented. Mrs. H. M. Johns, Elida, Ohio, relates her experience as follows: "My little boy is subject to croup. During the past winter I kept a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and when he began having that croupy cough I would give him one or two doses of it and it would break the attack. I like it better for children than any other cough medicine because children take it willingly, and it is safe and reliable." Obtainable everywhere.

PAINTED THE OLD MILL.

Then the Stingy Streak in the Artist Showed Itself.

During his professional work as a young engineer Francis Hopkinson Smith used to go off and take his recreation painting. I recall an incident which he related at that time.

Frank Smith had found an old water mill with overshot wheel near some piece of his work, and, having ensconced himself in a shady and favorable spot, he proceeded to paint a picture of the mill. His occupation soon drew the attention of the miller, who walked over and observed him across the fence with growing interest. Finally on the second day, as his picture grew in resemblance, the miller asked the painter, "What are you going to do with that when it is done?"

"Sell it," said Smith, working at the finishing touches.

After a pause of reflection:

"What do you call it late to get for it?"

"Oh, $100," said Smith cheerfully, "perhaps more."

"A hundred dollars?" gasped the miller.

He walked away to reflect and presently returned. His manner had somewhat changed.

"Has you ast anybody's permission to paint that mill?" he asked, leaning over the fence.

"No; I have not," said Smith promptly, whose picture was now about finished.

"Has anybody ever give you permission to paint it?"

"No," said Smith.

"Waal, you know whose mill it is?"

"No; I do not, but I rather expect it is yours," said the painter.

"It is," said the miller decisively, and then as the painter made ready to leave:

"Waal, don't you think you ought to divide what you get for that picture with the man who owns the mill?"

"Well, honestly, I don't," said Smith, laughing, as he bade him good day and came away, leaving him still hanging over the fence pondering the inequalities of life.—Thomas Nelson Page in Scribner's.

Pyorrhea—the disease nearly everybody has

No matter how sound your teeth may seem to be, no matter how you may scoff at the idea of your having this disease, it is a positive fact that the germ which causes it is working now in your teeth.

The appalling discovery of this fact—that the germ which causes pyorrhea is one which inhabits every human mouth—was made over a year ago. Since then dentists have been urging everyone to take special precautions in their daily toilet to prevent this disease from developing in its acute form of bleeding gums, tenderness in chewing and loose teeth.

To meet the need for such a daily treatment and to enable everyone to take the necessary precautions against this disease, a prominent dentist has put his own prescription before the public in the convenient form of Senreco Tooth Paste.

Senreco contains the best corrective and preventive for pyorrhea known to dental science. Used daily it will successfully protect your teeth from this disease. Senreco also contains the best harmless agent for keeping the teeth clean and white. It has a refreshing flavor and leaves a wholesome clean, cool and pleasant taste in the mouth.

Start the Senreco treatment tonight—full details in the folder wrapped around every tube. Symptoms described. A 25c two oz. tube is sufficient for six or eight weeks of the pyorrhea treatment. Get Senreco at your druggists today, or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Senreco Remedies Co., 505 Union Central Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Blissful Depravity.

In a border southern town lives an elderly negro carpenter who is locally distinguished for two things—his use of large words and his abiding fear of his wife, who is big, impressive and domineering. In this town a trio of young professional men keep bachelor quarters together.

Not so very long ago one of the three called the dorky in to do some small repairing job about the apartment.

"Boss," inquired the old man, in the midst of his work, "does you white gen'mens live heah in total depravity of de feminine sex?"

"We do," was the answer.

From the bottom of his henpecked soul the old dorky fetched up a long, deep, sincere sigh.

"Well, suh," he said, "ef I wuz ez you is I should suttinly remain so."—Saturday Evening Post.

The Substituted Egg.

"There was a clever reporter," said a lawyer, "who used to do the Albany legislature. If a session promised to be long the reporter would refresh himself with a hard boiled egg. Taking the egg from his pocket, he would open it and drop the shells into the crown of his hat, which he held between his knees. He would finish this hurried repart before any one knew what he was doing. But on April 1 the boys couldn't resist playing a joke on their egg eating friend. They substituted for his hard boiled egg a raw one. Oh, what a mess there was, to be sure, when in the midst of an important debate the poor reporter hastily broke that egg in his hat!"—Buffalo Express.

Egg Crop Loss.

Two per cent of all eggs sold are broken before they get to the consumer. Two per cent more are dirty. The total loss from all causes is over one-sixth the total egg crop.—Farm and Fireside.

BLOOMINGTON WOMAN THANKS MR. MAYR

Mrs. Homer Sexton Tells Friends About Use of Wonderful Treatment.

Mrs. Homer Sexton of Bloomington, Ind., suffered from digestive and stomach disorders for a long time. She tried to find relief, but it seemed a long way off—until she tried Mayr's Wonderful Remedy.

The first dose gave her relief and started her on the way to health. She wrote: "Your medicine did me a world of good. I have taken your treatment and believe it has cured me, and I have told all my friends about it. I am ever so thankful."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

She Knows What She Wants

The well informed housekeeper insists upon using only a baking powder which is made of cream of tartar. She might read in an advertisement or be told that alum and lime phosphate, which are used as inferior substitutes in cheap baking powders, were all right in the quantities used but she would not buy them or permit them to enter her kitchen. Why?

Because she knows that cream of tartar has always been accepted as the most wholesome agent, with soda, for raising cake and biscuit, and she wants a baking powder made of cream of tartar, like Royal.

This conclusion is the result of unconscious absorption, either her own or her mother's, of the opinions of the highest authorities on hygiene and home cooking.

The prudent housekeeper, when she uses baking powder, reads the names of the ingredients printed on the label. She knows what she wants.

OPEN SEASON FOR QUAILS WILL BEGIN WEDNESDAY

Scores of Hunters Have Guns, Dogs and Ammunition Ready for Early Morning Start.

The public generally may not be apprised of the fact, but Indiana—at least a part of it—has declared war. The official declaration becomes effective on the stroke of 12 tonight. The attacking forces are assembling for a great onslaught. The enemy, it is reported today, is seeking shelter in trenches and underbrush and the outposts are searching for strategic positions. The munitions are being shifted to the scenes of action so that an assault can be made at the earliest possible moment without giving the enemy a chance to escape.

The fatalities, however, will be singly. It is against the rules of the Allies Hunters' Organization to kill more than one enemy at a time. The time was when this rule was not enforced and if six or seven could be killed at one shot so much the better. But now, in this day of modern warfare and sportsmanship it is hard to find any one who will make such an admission.

For the benefit of anyone who does not grasp the meaning of the above the open season for quail begins tomorrow and bright and early scores of local hunters will march forth in search of them. The local dealers in ammunition say they have sold large quantities during the last few days. The large number of hunters' licenses which have been issued here during the past week indicating that many will enjoy this sport. The season is open until December 20.

Some of the landowners in this section of the county have posted their farms against hunters and trespassers and say they intend to enforce the other. Others have no objection to hunting on their land provided the visitors do not wound the cattle, hogs and other stock. In some vicinities, it is reported, the farmers have posted cards on the fences stating that the live stock in the particular field is not wild and hunters are requested to pass them up.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank all of our neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and after the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Fredericka Heins. To the Rev. Mr. Booch, for his words of sympathy, to Mr. F. J. Voss for his many acts of kindness, and to those who expressed their sympathy with floral designs, we assure them they shall always be held in most grateful memory.

"BADGER GAME" CASES MAY BE DISMISSED

This is Indicated When Trial of Mrs. Viola Allenbaugh, of Tipton, Comes to Close.

By United Press

Tipton, Ind., November 9—When the case against Mrs. Viola Allenbaugh, charged with complicity in the murder of Walter Varner, was dismissed today, the second day of the trial, for lack of evidence, it was indicated that all of the so-called "badger game" cases would take the same course.

The trial of Mrs. Cora Robertson, charged with murder in the first degree, will be called next term. The state alleged that Varner was killed when he refused longer to be a party to a plot to blackmail Tipton county men. The state has had difficulty in persuading men to take the stand.

SEATS ON SALE FOR OPENING LYCEUM NUMBER

Old Colonial Band to Open Season
Thursday Evening With Concert at Majestic Theater.

Reserved seats for the first number of the Lyceum course were placed on sale last evening, and the way in which they were taken up would indicate a capacity house for Thursday evening, when the Old Colonial Band, a new attraction in Lyceum circles, will open the season with a full concert.

The Old Colonial Band presents a program in which are included, besides ensemble numbers, sextets, quartets, trios, duets and solos, and with encores occupies about two hours. The instruments used by this company are two cornets, one trombone, one baritone horn, one bass horn, two French horns, two clarinets, two drums, aside from the cornet which Signor Carmeliny himself will use for his solos.

Mr. Carmeliny, prior to coming to this country, was chief trumpeter in the Third Infantry of the royal Italian army. Since then he has served in the U. S. army, where he was solo cornetist with the Twenty-seventh Infantry Band. He has also been solo cornetist in several of the important bands of the country.

The organization which Mr. Carmeliny brings here had been furnishing the music on the ships of one of the large trans-Atlantic steamship

SOCIAL EVENTS.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

Levi Spurgeon, of Freetown, is receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends on the occasion of his eighty-sixth birthday which he celebrated Sunday. For several years Mr. Spurgeon has been living with his sons and daughters but the birthday celebration and dinner was held at the old homestead, one mile west of Freetown, which remains furnished the same as when the family lived there.

At the celebration about fifty of his relatives and friends were present and enjoyed the elegant dinner which was prepared. Among the guests were his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mr. Spurgeon is one of the few pioneers of Jackson county who has witnessed the growth and development of the community from a forest in which many wild animals lived to a section of the state noted for its fertile and profitable farms. He was born in Washington county and came to Jackson county when he was about nine years of age, settling near Freetown. When he moved to this county there was only one residence between Brownstown and Freetown. When the town of Freetown was laid out the lot upon which the Lockman & Brown store now stands sold for $2.50. Mr. Spurgeon was a merchant for a number of years and made frequent trips to Louisville in a wagon after merchandise. He served as trustee in Salt Creek township and erected several district school buildings. He was interested in the growth of the community and realized that the education of the children was an important factor in its development. When he moved to Salt Creek township wolves and other wild animals abounded in the wooded territory in that section of the country.

Mr. Spurgeon thoroughly enjoyed the anniversary of his birthday. He is very active and promises to enjoy many more occasions of this kind.

DINNER PARTY.

Miss Nora Campbell gave a delightful dinner Monday evening at her home on West Brown street, for a company of friends. Covers were laid for Misses Grace McGinty, Faye Holmes, Mrs. J. E. Hamer, Mrs. Fred Heuser, Misses Julia Kerkhoff, Louise Aufderheide, Anna Massmann, Grace Love and Miss Campbell and Miss Lula Patterson, of Columbus.

ENTERTAINED.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hulse entertained about twenty-five friends Monday evening at their home on East Second street, in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hulse, of Chicago. The evening was spent with music and refreshments of cream and cake were served.

Spoiled His Thoughts.

Little Billie was lying quietly with eyes wide open, but apparently seeing nothing. After awhile his mother asked, "Dreaming, Billie?" "Not dreaming; thinking," replied Billie impatiently. "and when anybody speaks to me it cuts the think right in two, and I have to begin all over again."—Pittsburgh Press.
